Tulip Bulb Collections and Special Offers

WE have found that the TULIP BULB COLLECTIONS that we have supplied to our customers for many years have proved most satisfactory, and we again offer a very choice selection this year.

These collections have served to introduce these fine flowers to many, who had not realized how little effort is required to have and enjoy a bright spot in the garden long before other garden flowers are in bloom.

These collections are offered at far less than the price of the listed varieties. We are enabled to make these offers for the reason that we can equalize our stocks to better advantage, and often include the choice high priced varieties that do not sell as readily. This does not mean that we use undesirable kinds, as we are careful not to stock any inferior varieties.

Each collection is made up with varieties that will give the greatest range of color and display and, we feel confident, will please the most exacting.

We want to emphasize the facts that only TOP SIZE bulbs are used, and also that these collections are real bargains.

DARWIN TULIP COLLECTIONS

We offer these first because we have found that they are the most popular with our customers. While the cost of all bulbs imported from Holland has gone up because of the great difference in value of the U. S. dollar and the Dutch money, we are able to keep prices at a minimum because of very large purchases.

This Guarantee Insures Your Satisfaction

We guarantee every bulb and plant that we supply to be of first quality and any plant proving untrue to name and type will be resupplied without charge.

We share with you, too, in the natural risks of planting and agree to resupply any plant that may fail to grow the first season after planting at one-half the purchase price. Reports of any such losses must reach us by June 1st.

All catalog prices are for material packed and ready to ship from St. Paul and we request that you tell us whether to ship by parcel post, freight or express. Please allow for parcel post when requesting shipments in that way.

You will have the best results by planting when the season is most favorable and we urge that you select and order your bulbs and plants early. We solicit your orders and the opportunity to help you make your yard and garden more delightful and pleasant than ever during the coming year.

DARWIN TULIPS

THE Darwins comprise the most popular class of tulips for the reason that they are generally better known than any of the older or newer types, and justly so, as the magnificent large flowers produce a beautiful and brilliant color effect in the garden early in the season when it is most welcome.

Among the many colors and shades the reds and pinks predominate but soft blues, violets and purples with shadings into maroons and almost black may be found among them. In recent years pure white and yellows have been developed and are now available at a reasonable price. While there is quite a variation from the colors mentioned in Darwins, one must look among the Breeders for the golds and bronzes, and the Cottage tulips will supply the intense orange and scarlet.

IDEAL TULIPS

IDEAL Tulips may be called first cousins to the Darwins and they bear quite a near resemblance to each other. BREEDER TULIPS

THEY are so called because they comprise the old original or mother tulips that were favorites in Holland centuries ago, and from which many of the improved newer types and classes have been bred and developed.

The habit of growth is strong and robust. Their size and great lasting qualities make them unusually well suited for the garden.

A remarkable variation of rich color tones will be found among the Breeders, many so termed pastel shades will be found among them, but the predominating color tones are rich bronze, buff, golden yellow and purples, many of these shades being beautifully blended in the same flower. Many of these fine large flowers are overlaid with a silvery sheen or bloom, such as is seen on fruits. Many of them are sweet scented.

Their flowering period is approximately the same time as the Darwins, although very few of them will flower as early as the first Darwins. Beautiful color schemes can be made up with Breeders and the Darwins, they are approximately of the same height and with the additional colors in this class there is no desired color lacking to create a beautiful picture in the garden.

THESE most interesting Tulips have become very popular with the advent of the rock garden for which they are particularly adapted, as their native habitat is, with one or two exceptions, the rocky slopes bordering the Mediterranean Sea, where the bulbs are collected from their wild state.

These Tulips comprise extremes and variations in size, shape and type of growth as well as habit. PARROT OR DRAGON TULIPS

These large curious flowers are quite unique. Their form is most artistic, as well as fantastic. They are beautifully fringed and lacinated, and attract the eye to wherever the flower may be in the garden or border.

The new varieties are particularly desirable because of their strange, erect habit of growth. The old standard varieties are more desirable for planting on the edges of law branched evergreens as they grow in a sprawling and twisting manner, the large flowers are inclined to lie flat on the ground if not supported.

NARCISSI-DAFFODILS

NARCISSI comprise a large and varied family of bulbous plants. Confusion often arises about the proper names when referring to the different types. Narcissi is the proper family name for Daffodils, Jonquils, Bi-Colors, Paetaz and similar designations in common use. The large yellow trumpet varieties are generally regarded as Daffodils, the small cupped kinds are commonly termed Jonquils, the white and clustered flowers are just referred to as Narcissi without further distinction. Else-

CULTURE OF NARCISSI

Narcissi prefer a partially sheltered location, where best results will be obtained. They will, however, thrive in most any reasonable situation, continuing to increase from year to year.

Plant the larger bulbs so that the tops are about six inches under the surface, smaller bulbs slightly less. BUT it is essential for best results TO PLANT THEM EARLY. Narcissi need a longer period for the development of roots in the fall than other kinds of bulbs. Late plantings are often disappointing.

Cover rather heavily with straw or leaves before severe freezing weather sets in. The covering should be removed as early as snow and ice will permit.

Indoor culture of Narcissi varies with the variety, some may be grown in receptacles containing water and pebbles, but all kinds may be grown in pots and treated in the same manner as Hyacinths. (See directions on page 13.)

NOTE—The bulbs we offer are without exception TOP SIZE "MOTHER BULBS," the largest bulbs procurable, and will produce several flowers each.

SUPERB HYACINTHS

GROWING Hyacinths is a very simple matter indeed, and a great deal of pleasure may be derived from watching the development of the bright, cheery, sweetly-scented flowers during winter days. No other bulb flower is easier to grow indoors.

INDOOR CULTURE

For planting in soil use any kind of a pot that has drainage. Ordinary clay pots are preferable and ordinary soil with a little sand mixed into it makes it more porous. Place a broken piece of crock over the hole in the bottom so as to insure free drainage. Fill in enough soil so that when placing the bulb the top will be about an inch below the level of the top of the pot, fill in soil and cover bulb firmly, leaving plenty of space below rim for watering. Use 4 to 5 inch pots for the larger bulbs when planting them singly. A number of smaller bulbs planted in wider shallow pots is very satisfactory. After potting, water thoroughly and place in a cool, dark place and leave until a number of roots show on outside of soil when it is tipped out of pot. When several roots show through, it is then safe to bring them into the light where they are to grow.

Hyacinths may also be grown in glasses or bowls of water. The bulb should be placed so that the bottom just touches the water, and enough water added occasionally to keep it at the proper level. Hyacinths grown in water should also be kept cool and dark until plenty of roots have developed.

When bringing them into the light where they are to grow, better results will be obtained by growing them cool. A window sill or sunroom is best.

OUTDOOR CULTURE

Plant Hyacinths so that top of bulb is about five inches under the surface, water thoroughly, and cover with leaves or coarse straw before severe cold weather sets in. Covering for Hyacinths should be quite heavy. Remove covering as early as snow and ice will permit, but if already sprouted it is well to replace a little of the covering to keep the direct rays of the sun away, this is to prevent harm from the sudden changes in weather.

Plant the bulb in well-drained soil with the top of the bulb six to seven inches below the ground level. Fill in and firm with good garden soil.

INDOOR CULTURE OF LILIES—In potting them be sure to provide enough drainage so that at no time will the plant get water logged.
